The Cover

A frail outline of gold depicts a swaying pendulum as it glides through ages of minds and men. The beat-beat of the perpetual pendulum persists—a constant reminder of the passing time. But in front and overshadowing this time-piece stand two solid and firm crosses—each exemplifying a different artistic age but both symbolizing the Christus within our own hearts. The pendulum is flooded with the darkness and unimportance of a deathly black; but when it dies, Christ's golden presence will abide forever in the eternal lives of his followers. There is no human or earthly measurement for Christ's love! Christ conquers all! Christ conquers time!

ACADEMICS

A TIME FOR EDUCATION

New Principal Adds Spark to C.L.H.S.

"What has impressed me most about Concordia is the tremendous spirit in evidence at this school. Teachers, staff, students, parents—everyone associated with Concordia is so proud of our high school and so anxious to do his share. We know how important high morale is in helping us reach the high objectives we have for this school, for making it a laboratory for Christian living in which young people can experience wholesome growth."

The Rev. Peter A. Zadeik, Jr.

We're gonna.....

School Board Works For Betterment Of School

The administration of Concordia High School's business requires many hours of meetings and discussion. The members of the Board of Education, who give these hours willingly, often remain unrecognized; but these results of their efforts are appreciated by all.

Mr. Herzog Helps The Individual

In his position as guidance counselor, Mr. Herzog has furnished many students with advice concerning courses, colleges, scholarships, and careers. The fact that this position requires all of his time is an indication of Concordia's need for this type of service.

Mr. Guenther Herzog, M.A.

Consistent, good cooks are hard to find. Ours are Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Sommer, Mrs. Ostermeyer, Mrs. Bredemeyer, Mrs. Grepke, Mrs. Trier, and Mrs. Redden.

Coming closer to the end of another busy day are Mrs. Roemke, Mrs. Masenthin, and Mrs. Wiegman.

Pointing out the "how and why" of a boiler are our custodians, Mr. Eicher, Mr. Grewe and Mr. Stein. Another custodian, Mr. Burr is not pictured.

Behind-The-Scenes Staff Keeps Concordia Running Smoothly

The smoothness of operations at Concordia is largely a result of the careful work of "behind-the-scenes" help—custodians, office staff, and cafeteria staff. By tolerating minor thorns (custodians: students in the halls after 5 P.M.; office staff: red tape and Seniors; cafeteria staff: lunch count of 500 and 570 students wanting lunches), they have increased co-operation between students and staff.

"He who heeds instruction is on the path to life." Proverbs 10:17. Realizing the importance of these words and the responsibility they place on teachers, the faculty at Concordia provided Christian guidance and instruction to all students throughout the entire year. By showing patience and understanding, they clarified everyday academic problems and motivated students with a desire to learn. Their Christian influence often strengthened fundamental concepts which are necessary for a fruitful adulthood.

Religion Adds Purpose to Students' Lives.

Since it is the Seniors' last year at CLHS, Religion is more important than ever.

Freshmen receive on Old Testament geography lesson from Pastor Oldsen.

The one element that sets Concordia apart from public schools is the same element that binds its students together — religion. With faith as a common denominator, both students and faculty strive to please God and to help one another. This purpose places meaning into lives that otherwise might be aimless and hollow. "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to His purpose."

Romans 8:28

Juniors learn of the Church's background from Mr. Howard.

Creative Abilities Developed In English

In speech class D. Smola demonstrates how to bake a cake.

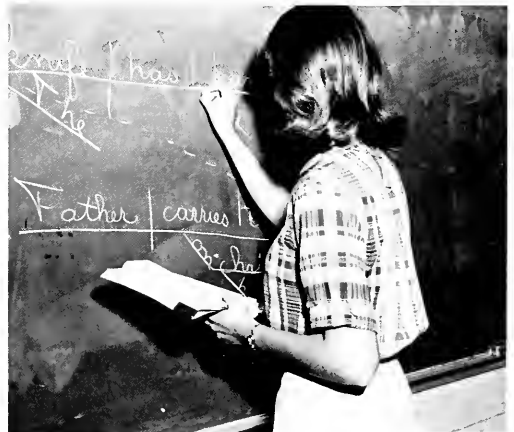

M. Witte times A. Sanders, S. Keltsch, and S. Wick as they take a speed reading test in developmental reading.

English has become a necessity in almost every area of life—business, industry, entertainment, education, and religion. It is therefore very important that students learn to express themselves clearly and concisely. This objective is made clear to students early in the freshman year and is carried out through clarification of the finer points of the English language, along with detailed discussions of fine works of literature.

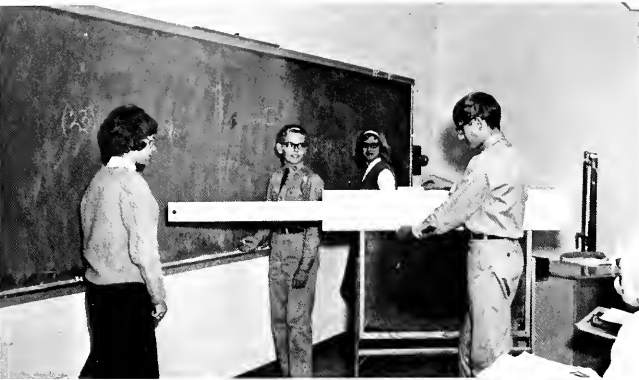

Mr. Jordan is "making the rounds" in his senior English class.

D. Meyer is using diagramming, a basic tool of English.

Math Presents A Challenge To Ambitious Students

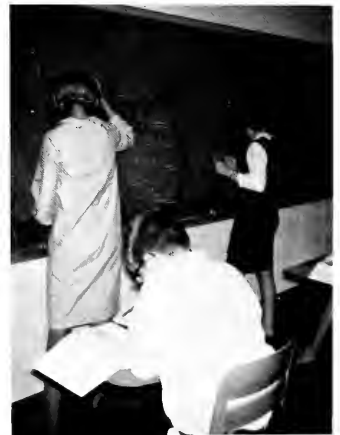

Big slide rule for big problems.

The main objective of the math program at Concordia is teaching students to reason and think step by step. Although a student may never again use a logarithm or a quadratic formula, he will always find a need for the ability to think logically. If not pursued as a vocation, mathematics is also useful in everyday life for solving common mathematical problems.

"Careful, people!"

S. Buesching designs mass and volume with toothpicks. Patiences, Sue, patience.

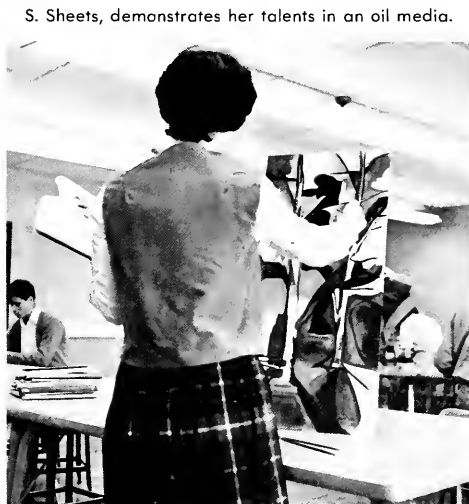

R. Feldheiser tests his skill on the potter's wheel.

Beauty And Thought Expressed By Imitation And Design

Art is an expression of an idea or feeling. By learning the correct techniques of design, CLHS students are able to transmit their own ideas and feelings through their paintings, drawings, and sculptures. In the art appreciation course students make a serious study of a civilization's art work, which often reveals the country's entire history: the thoughts and ideas of its people, the motives behind its actions, and the general condition of its society.

M. Tapp and R. Procise train themselves to see lines and shapes more quickly.

S. Sheets, demonstrates her talents in an oil media.

In shorthand as in anything else, practice makes perfect.

Miss Ross knows best.

Students Gain Speed And Proficiency Through Practice

If at first you don't succeed. . .

Secretarial skills are invaluable to students bound for college or for the business world. Headed by Miss Ross, Concordia's secretarial department is well known for its efficiency in teaching and developing these skills.

First year typing students learn the fundamentals of typing.

Library And Bookstore Serve As Service Centers For Students

Minds and hands grope over homework.

T. Sommers catches up on current events in the library.

With over 6,000 books available in the library and school materials, sweatshirts, and tickets for sale in the bookstore, Concordia's two service centers are well-populated before and after school.

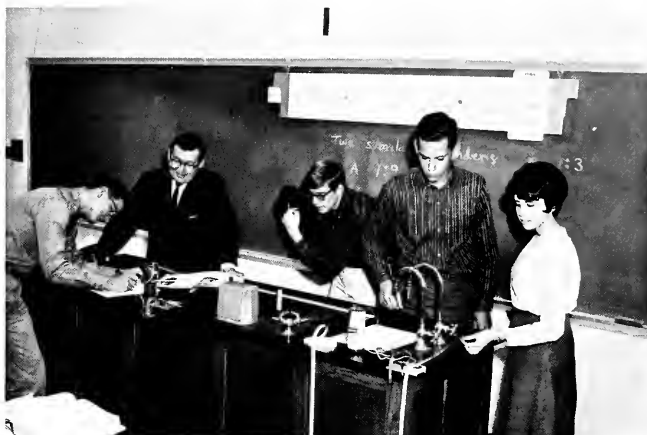

The library offers students a last-minute chance to study.

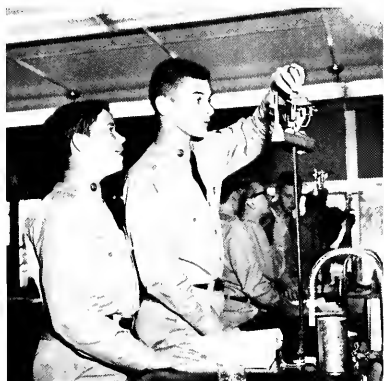

R. Jonas gives service with a smile in the bookstore.

I can hardly wait to try it!

Isn't that int'resting!

Think it'll explode?

Major Element In Science Courses Is Work

Lab days often bring a welcome relief after several days of atoms, acceleration graphs, and amoeba cells. To most students Concordia's science courses are interesting, but they require long hours of hard study. With the addition of a general science course, even more students have become acquainted with lab days and hard work.

Do ya see it...da ya?

Boy is this fascinating!

Future Citizens Study Their Changing World

Mr. Gallmeier relates and evaluates the past.

The social studies program at Concordia is not just one maze of facts and dates; it also includes a look at the why's and wherefore's of events and customs. By examining the past, present, and future of their country and world, students begin to realize the importance of the roles they will soon be playing as Christian citizens.

Map work puzzles the frash.

Soc students analyze recent happenings.

Words of wisdom from Mr. Haar.

French Added To Foreign Language Department

Latin III scholars, S. Stein and B. Robinson, work on the Roman Forum.

The study of a foreign language gives students a better understanding of people and customs of other countries, as well as a greater knowledge of our own language. Latin, although sometimes considered a dead language, has left its mark on several cultures and in many languages and is therefore valuable as a basic language. German, and now French, enables students to express themselves and converse in a foreign tongue.

B. Weimer and M. Winebrenner look over one of many student projects in German class.

In French, Mr. Ramm helps D. Prochnow in pronunciation with the use of the tape recorder.

Future Homemakers Learn Household Management

Peanut butter and pineapple? Ugh!

Consulting the expert.

Kitchen facilities and a room full of sewing machines set the stage for Concordia's home economics program. Under the careful guidance of Mrs. Roop, home economics students learn to plan and cook meals, use a sewing machine, manage a household, and care for children. Emphasis is placed on the establishment of a Christian home.

94.8? Oh, she's cool!

Becky Hormann and Kathy Schweizer sew a fine seam.

P.E. team gets chance to play in the "Dust Bowl."

By participating in a wide variety of sports—soccer, golf, basketball, volleyball, tumbling, physical fitness tests—students in Concordia's physical education program gain a broader understanding of the term "athletics." To them athletics means recreation, the thrill of competition and team effort, the development of coordination and strength, and the sharpening of the mind. Athletics is not only for varsity participants; it is for everyone.

Physical Education Produces Alert Students

Skilled Ideas Are Perfected In Shop

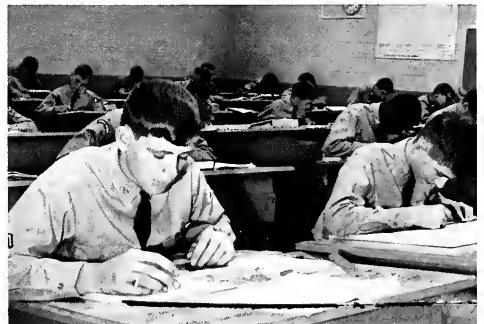

Struggling to be accurate these boys put their ideas on paper.

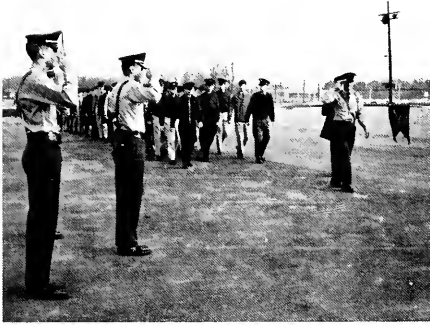

S. Dobbins works to reproduce his ideas in wood.

The purpose of mechanical drawing is to teach students to graphically represent objects on paper so that they can be accurately reproduced in a shop. Shop then is mainly concerned with the reading of blueprints and the use of hand tools, wood and metal lathes, and other machines. Shops such as Concordia's have proven very instrumental in training young men for responsible positions in industry.

B. Cook double checks his work.

Time Marches On In The Military Department

Company C, led by Captain Dillon, poses in review.

Major Hitzeman and Major Koehlinger get their battalion hour briefing from Lt. Col. van Oastan.

Mel Bredemeier stands erectly at attention for the Federal inspector.

In its sixtieth year of operation the military department continued to train competent young men for positions of responsibility in the adult world. While these recruits and cadets were learning the basic military procedures, they were teaching their officers the qualities of leadership and confidence. The tradition of discipline and good grooming has instilled in our school a spirit which no other school in the city experiences.

Many events occurred between September, 1965, and June, 1966, that students enjoy recalling. The faculty advisors, Mr. Ihssen and Mr. Panning; the Editor-in-Chief, Barbara Brandt; and the members of the staff put in many hours of planning, arranging, and finishing to produce this LUMINARIAN. With pictures, articles, and names, these people developed a treasury of memorable moments.

Mr. W. Ihssen and Mr. H. Panning offer helpful advice in planning and developing the LUMINARIAN.

Interviewing coach Parrish is the sports staff, Jim Brunner, Dale Chambers, Dave Hawk, Terry Breininger, and Mitch Henke, assistant sports editor.

Every three weeks the efforts of the Lu-Hi Voice staff are appreciated by the student body as they enjoy articles in the 4-6 page newspaper. Covering sports events, writing articles, gathering information, and rushing to meet deadlines are all necessary to keep every Cadet informed on school affairs and activities. Mr. Kurt Jordan is faculty advisor.

The industrious Lu-Hi staff is working to meet its deadline.

The business staff is Sue Strahan and John Zimmerman, advertising managers; Judy McFarland, business manager; and Steve Gatsch, photographer.

Every week the news at Concordia is reported in the News-Sentinel and the Journal Gazette by Barb Liebman and Sandy Wolf.

Members of the news staff are Carol Henline, Lois Denninger, Ruth Knoblauch, Bervia Kanning, Marcia Ver Bryck, and Barb Liebman, assistant news editor.

These representatives voice the opinions of the student body at regular Friday meetings.

Industrious Student Council Enjoys Active Year

The main objective of the Student Council is to serve our school and our community. In meetings held every Friday, members discuss the possible improvements of several areas of student life. By sponsoring paper drives, the Christmas Bureau project, and the Christmas dance, the council increased its treasury while providing enjoyment for students. The exchange student program, sponsored by the Council for the first time this year, proved beneficial to all involved.

The Student Council officers are Ron Ahlemeyer, treasurer; Bill Rahe, vice-president; Sandy Wolf, secretary; and Tom Manske, president.

Loading paper for the Student Council sponsored paper drive are Dan Saffen, Tom Manske, Steve Bolyard, and Mike Habel.

Religion Club Increases Student's Interest In The Church

The Religion Club is comprised mainly of future ministers, teachers, deaconesses, and active laymen. In addition to offering devotions on Wednesday mornings, the club also engaged guest speakers who shared their experiences and ideas with all interested students.

The members of the Chapel Committee are (l. to r.): M. Wyss, R. Hudson, J. Adair.

Thirty seniors—representing achievement, service, and leadership. The members are, back row: J. Timm, L. Otto, L. Willigo, D. Schultz, P. Lindemann, M. Wyss, J. Marhenke. 2nd row: K. Busch, S. Twirlers Brighten Half-time

Mimi Littlejohn gives the familiar salute.

These agile girls spend much time perfecting their routines.

Advised by Mr. Sievert, the twirlers led the band in several half-time performances and parades. In developing and perfecting their routines, the girls worked many hours after school and during vacations. Memorial Day found the group marching in the day's parade in downtown Fort Wayne.

Concordia's twirlers perform at one of our basketball games.

All The World's A Stage

William Shakespeare revealed his talent when he wrote plays; Concordia students prove their dramatic flairs when they participate in the productions of the Drama Club. In the fall, the lively, all-school comedy, Take Her She's Mine, was presented by the entire drama department under the skillful direction of Mr. David Ramm and Mr. DeWitt Miller. Winter brought the successful production of the merry, madcap musical Kiss Me Kate. Once again this year Concordia drama students delighted audiences with their abilities and talents in the dramatic arts.

The Michaelson family (T. Manske, M. Littlejohn, C. Bercot) gaze in bewilderment as Mr. Whitmeyer (M. Tapp) reprimands his son Emmett (B. Meier) for his behavior.

Mr. Miller helps F. Wehrenberg adjust his beard far his portrayal of Clancy in the fall play.

The entire cast of Take Her She's Mine takes a bow.

Intra-murals Promote Greater Co-operation Among Students

What farm!!

This year for the first time, an intra-mural sports program was introduced at Concordia. Boys' and girls' intra-mural basketball began as extra-curricular activities, while mixed volleyball originated as a co-curricular activity. The program encourages physical development and Christian sportsmanship among students. In the future, it is hoped that this program will be expanded to include more students in a variety of sports.

Concordia's JRC Cheerfully Serves Our Community

As a service organization the Junior Red Cross makes tray favors for the sick in hospitals and the Allen County Home. It's members visit patients and participate in a patient-feeding program at Veteran's Hospital. Several members, at the encouragement of advisor Mrs. Roop, also attend monthly meetings at the Chapter House of the American Red Cross.

The club members listen to a report given at their business meeting.

Social Studies Club Offers Service To Community

Under the leadership of Mr. Haar and Mr. Mayer, the new Social Studies Club offered interested students an opportunity to learn more about the local government and to serve their community. During the Christmas season, club members willingly helped the Christmas Bureau prepare clothing for distribution to needy families. Several field trips and various service projects were undertaken by the club to further their knowledge about our community.

Latin Club Adopts Roman Culture

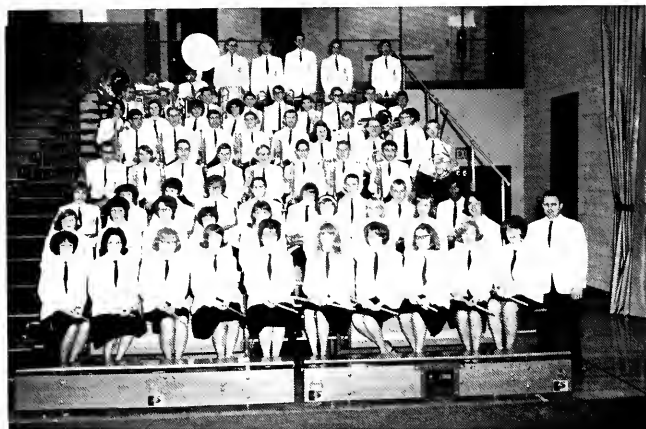

Membership in the Latin Club is open to all students who are taking or who have taken Latin. In each monthly meeting some phase of Roman life is more fully described and discussed. In addition to a Roman Christmas party in December, the club also sponsors a Roman banquet in the spring.

Latin Club officers who planned the club's activities are (l. to r.) Judy Lange, president; Dave Adams and Barb Robinson, vice-presidents; and Janice Etzler, secretary-treasurer.

Latin Club members, dressed in Roman togas, enjoy themselves at the club's annual Roman banquet in the spring.

Seventy-six Cadets Make Big Noise-- - - -

The Concordia High School Band.

The lively music of the band and the pounding rhythms of the drum section contributed a great deal to the enthusiasm of fans at pep sessions and ball games. Small groups within the band also enriched church services and other occasions with their efforts. Many rehearsal hours in the second semester were devoted to preparation for the Tri-City Music Festival, an annual get-together of five Lutheran bands for a weekend of music, hard-work, fun, and new friends.

The Stage Band takes five.

Orchestra Comes Alive With The Sound Of Music

Concordia's string orchestra has fourteen members this year. It is the only organization that stresses and plays classical music. Occasionally wind players from the band reinforce the strings. Centering its emphasis on religious music, the orchestra participates in many church services. It also takes part in the mass orchestra of the Tri-City Music Festival playing classical, religious, and popular music.

The Guys And Gals Who Proudly Wear The

In order to become a member of Concordia's Letterman's Club, a boy must participate in a sport for a specific number of quarters, or in other sports accumulate a certain number of points by winning. Girls who have letters have earned a required number of points within the Girl's Athletic Association. The Girl's Athletic Association strives to interest as many girls as possible in sports for women. Through dodgeball, and basketball tournaments and tumbling and track competition many girls learn the thrill of team effort and individual satisfaction.

New Art Service Club Offers Talents For Benefit Of School

The Art Service Club does just as its title suggests—it serves. Charging only for materials, the club designs posters and makes decorations for several dances, including the Christmas dance and the Prom. At the end of the school year, the outstanding member received an award from the club's sponsor, Mr. Grabowski.

Biology Club Members Learn The Secrets Of God's World

Two days a month the members of the Biology Club meet in the biology lab to perform dissections and to discuss careers in biology. Under the supervision of Mr. Huebschmann the club takes informative field trips. The Advanced Biology Club also enjoys field trips and more extensive activities in the lab.

Computer Class Gains Practical Experience In Mathematics Field

With Mr. Gayer's instruction, the Computer Class learns to write programs for computers and to understand their limitations. The class gains first hand experience by making use of the IBM 1620 computer at the I.U.-P.U. Extension. This year the members programmed a table of square roots, figured a probable income tax, and worked trigonometry problems as a few of their projects.

Here are the members of the Computer Class with their sponsor Mr. Gayer.

The Freshman Drill Team, Officers' Club, Precision Drill Team, Rifle Team, and Snap Squad are a most essential part of our military Department. By participating in any of these groups an individual has a chance to develop many valuable skills. Examples of discipline, courtesy, showmanship, and the meaning of service to country and school can be seen through the many activities of these military organizations.

Concordia's Choirs Aid Worship Through-

A newly formed chorale group: The Concordia Singers

Training choirs sang in chapel services.

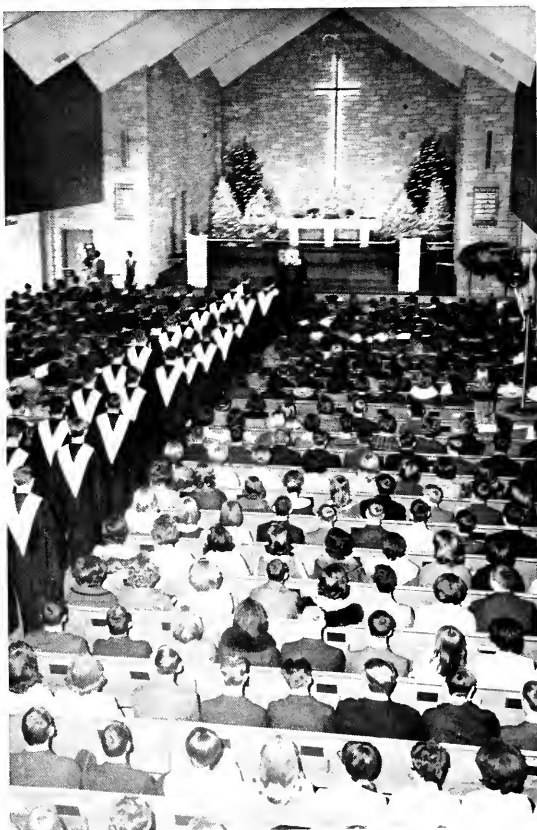

"Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands. Serve the Lord with gladness: Come before his presence with singing."

Psalms 100: 1,2

out The Year

The "a cappella" choir, under the direction of Mr. Charles Henke, played a major role in student worship this year. Also a preaching-reaching organization, it spread the message of the gospel to a great number of people through radio and television during the Christmas and Easter seasons. This year's 102 voice choir had the opportunity to travel to Ball State University, Valparaiso, and Chicago.

The Concordia Singers, a new addition to our choral department, performed at many community functions this year. This organization sings a variety of both secular and sacred music.

"Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord."

"Well Cadets Are You With Us?"

The enthusiastic leadership of Concordia's nine cheerleaders at pep sessions and ball games encouraged a spirit that showed itself in the loyalty and loudness of the fans and in the performance of our teams. Like the teams they backed, these girls worked long and hard to make certain that other schools and fans were confronted with a great deal of enthusiasm and spirit.

The Reserve Cheerleaders are (top to bottom) Janet Scheuman, Debbie Gerke, Charlene Dinse, Patti Purvis

Hours Of Practice Pay Off For Reserve And Frosh Games

Under the direction of first-year coach Dewitt Miller, the reserve basketball squad tipped and swished its way to an admirable 17-7 record. This winning effort was surpassed only by Art Pinnows spirited frosh, who compiled a fine 18-2 record. In the next few years Concordia will be looking to these young men for victories in varsity competition.

Grapplers Complete Second Big Season

Led by seniors Bob Hudson and Stan Koehlinger, Concordia grapplers compiled a commendable record of 7 wins and 5 losses. In competition with more experienced teams, our second-year squad exhibited a good deal of ability and spirit. With eight varsity men returning next year, Coach Ihssen is already looking forward to his third season.

Tennis Team Completes Victorious Season

Greg Fritz

Tennis, like other sports, builds character as well as muscles. This year many hours of hard work with helpful instruction from Coach Reinking produced a successful season. On the courts our netmen really exemplified the words of Russell Barley Kingman: "Tennis begets self-discipline. It teaches the uncertainties of battle, overcoming obstacles, hardening the human body under physical stress. America needs ten to every one of the million who play the game."

C. Ehrman tees up and hopes for a good drive.

D. Haugk blasts out of the sand, which often plogues galfers.

For the Cadet golfers and their coach, Glenn Parrish, spring was accompanied by a barrage of irons, tees, slices, hazards, putts, and elusive little holes. Although the seasonal record was an evaluation of the team's effort, each golfer derived a personal satisfaction in conquering nine fairways and greens with a minimum number of strokes.

T. Koener lines up a putt on a deceptive green.

S. Hitzeman displays typical golf apparel.

Harriers Make Record Time

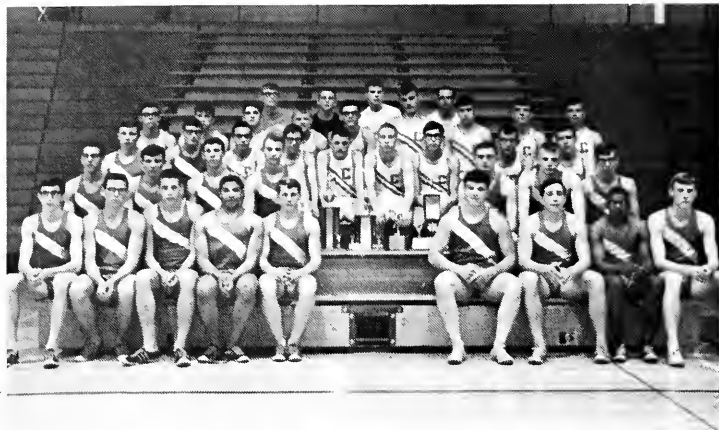

Cross country, a fall sport of physical coordination and endurance, is a competitive race over a charted, two-mile course. This year Concordia harriers bounded over hill and dale to a seasonal record of 6-4. Sparked by Coach Reinking, the team secured third place in the conference and fourth place in the sectional meet.

Cindermen Strive For Second N.E.I.C. Crown

Since track is actually several sports combined under one heading, it provided varsity athletic opportunity to boys of all shapes, sizes, and abilities. By blending this variety of talent, experience and hard work, rookie coach, Larry Goeglein, was able to produce a successful season.

J. Peters starts his final lap in another winning performance.

Cadets Sparkle On Diamond

S. Shafer takes a big lead-off in hopes of stealing an extra base.

R. Stelzer sizes up an opposing pitcher.

In major league baseball, pressure, paychecks, errors, fines, crowds, stardom, and exploding scoreboards are typical of the entire season. Major concerns in the NEIC are teamwork, school honor, and individual satisfaction. Coached by Jack Massucci, this year's Cadet team fared well in all three areas as they batted and pitched their way to a commendable record.

Mr. Ihssen (head wrestling) and Mr. Reinking (head cross-country and tennis) discuss finances with Mr. Baack, Athletic Director.

Mr. Anderson (freshman football and assistant baseball) and Mr. Pinnow (frosh football and assistant baseball) appear optimistic about the coming season.

Mr. Halm (reserve football and track) sets up a new play with Mr. Howard (reserve football).

Coaches

Mr. Parrish (head basketball and golf) and Mr. Miller prepare for the basketball season.

Mr. Goeglein (head football and track) explains the meaning of "pigskin" to Mr. Massucci (assistant football and head basketball).

SENIORS

A TIME FOR REFLECTION

We chose leaders of our most honorable class:
Mike Habel, treasurer; Julie Hartman, secretary;
Dave Hawk, president; and Paige Wolf, vice-president.

A blazing fire never fails to bring back the fondest of memories.
Move over Judy, so we can see the fire.

Be Aware Of

Bangs and bruises never held us back. We strove to make ourselves leaders of the pack!

Say, looks like three-week papers! Most scholarly, Karen Rodenbeck and Lon Otto grind the wheels.

Who says we ain't got culture, William? Karen Miller and Bill Rahe were chosen most likely to succeed.

Seniors

Bearing

Sweets for the sweet. Mary Konow and Tim Shelton were voted our cutest couple.

Linda, you don't mean it! Yes, yes I did it!

Gifts!

Who was your model? Sandy Misselhorn, chosen most artistic, models o clay vase.

Hurry, John, we'll miss the viper! Julie Hartman and John Hitzeman were selected as our lady and gent.

Let's play another game. I'm better at dots! Mischievous Marcie Schwehn and Roger Hudson were chosen our most witty seniors.

Heart rendering isn't it? Best musicians, Kim Gall and John Knoll play up a storm.

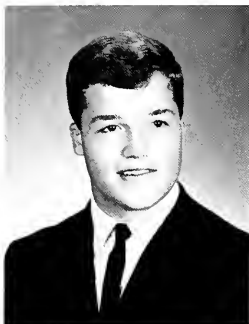

Was it a bird? It was a bird. Ran Ahlemeyer and Sandy Wolf, who have done most for their class, apply a bit of elbow grease.

Should we drink to the occasion? Well...if no one is looking. Tom Manske and Colleen Bercot were chosen as having the most engaging senior personalities.

"Barbelltennispingpongfootballjumprope...wanna play"? inquire our most athletic personalities, Bob Hudson and Kay Schaenefeld.

THE MOON and beyond

Bright, new horizons await today's students. . .
new technologies. . . new advancements on all fronts
. . . even the moon and whatever lies beyond.

How far you go in this space age depends partly on your imagination but primarily on your education and training. Conquering new horizons will demand more of today's graduates—more knowledge, more skills, more training and more specialization.

Our Free Enterprise system, with its high living standards, gives you an opportunity to "shoot for the moon" in any field. Whether or not your target is reached depends on how well trained you are to launch your career.
